

2022-2023 Gundersen Health System Transitional Year Residents

Seth Arntz, M.D.

Medical School: University of North Dakota
Adv. Residency: Radiology – UW Madison

"I chose Gundersen for both the flexibility of electives and for the unique housing opportunity which is a perfect set-up for transitional years. Beyond that, I have enjoyed the clinical environment with great support from faculty and senior residents and an all-around positive culture in the hospital!"

Lap-Heng Keung, M.D.

Medical School: Medical College of Wisconsin
Adv. Residency: Radiology – Atlantic Health System

"Completing my transitional year at Gundersen has been an unforgettable experience filled with wonderful memories with awesome co-residents and amazing faculty."

Michele Buonomo, M.D.

Medical School: University of Minnesota
Adv. Residency: Dermatology – University of Minnesota

Mitchell Malecha, M.D.

Medical School: University of Minnesota
Adv. Residency: Anesthesiology – Mayo Health System

"I chose Gundersen because of the balanced clinical curriculum, supportive learning environment, and personalized resident development. The program is committed to patient care while also maximizing resident learning and well-being. You truly feel like family during your year at Gundersen."

Jonah Devries, M.D.

Medical School: University of South Dakota
Adv. Residency: Anesthesiology – Mayo Health System

"I chose Gundersen Health System because I felt it provided the right training atmosphere to foster camaraderie and personal growth, while being situated in a vibrant location with plenty of recreational opportunities."

Edmond Njua, M.D.

Medical School: University of North Dakota
Adv. Residency: Internal Medicine – HCA Trinity Hospital

"I chose Gundersen because I wanted to stay in the Midwest and wanted a place in a smaller town. There were also two other students from UND doing IM, and I had heard a lot of great things about the program. My expectations have been more than met."

2022-2023 Gundersen Health System Transitional Year Residents

James Pathoulas, M.D.

Adv. Residency: Dermatology – Stanford Health System

Lauren Van Hove, M.D.

Medical School: University of South Dakota
Adv. Residency: Dermatology – Park Nicollet

"I came to Gundersen because I heard that they had a reputation for treating their residents well. I can tell you that they have lived up to that reputation. Everyone I have worked with has been very kind and supportive, and the medical staff that I work with enjoy having residents around. I have had an overall great experience."

Jasmair Sangha, M.D.

Medical School: University of Texas School of Medicine at San Antonio
Adv. Residency: Radiology – Mount Sinai Medical Center

"I chose Gundersen because it was well known to have a friendly and collegial community. I've greatly enjoyed my time here and think this is one of the best places to learn and train."

Erika Wood, M.D.

Medical School: UW-Madison
Adv. Residency: Radiology – UCLA Medical Center

"I chose Gundersen because I wanted flexibility on taking electives during my TY year! The perks are also great, food stipend and furnished housing right next to the hospital!"

Jason Sargent, M.D.

Medical School: Mayo Clinic School of Medicine
Adv. Residency: Anesthesiology – Mayo Health System

"I chose Gundersen because it has a small-town family feel of the program while still providing top tier education and patient care."
